

bettong.org

Bettong.org is an acronym for Bettong Environment, Training and Technology Open Networking Group.

Bettong is a not-for-profit projects-based community organisation.

It's purpose is to help people initiate and run community computing projects with the support, processes, and organisational structure of a like minded team.

So far we have run a training project in Marree, have participated in a Jewellery from recycled computer components workshop, and have been developing ideas for other open source software training projects.

We have been using the INGOTs academy desktop standards and are also developing our own materials.

Contact us if you're interested in collaborating on computing projects
Or if you would be interested in training on using Linux.
